I am a mixed-media artist based out of Project For Empty Space in Newark, New Jersey. I utilize a variety of media from spray paint to acrylic paint, collage and even assemblage of trash to signify a principle of "No-Waste". My work deals with the concept of energy transferrals amongst people and also can be viewed as a narrative that describes how the current society we live in has not been created to benefit the spirit. I realize these concepts through my twisted and heavily detailed paintings, drawings and sculptures that poke fun at pop culture, materialism and social interactions.
